BATTLES FEATURE REVOLT

BOTH FEDERALS AND REBELS CLAIMING
BRAZIL VICTORIES

Twelve States Are Revolting; Six Remain Loyal

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 11.—Miniature battles in widely separated areas and an almost stalemate military situation elsewhere summed up the Brazilian civil war today.

Three arenas where clashes occurred between the opposing forces included the states of Minas Geraes, Santa Catharina and Sao Paulo. Federal troops, according to assorted information, were advancing again upon Bello Horizonte after defeating rebel forces in the localities of Pousos Porto and Juiz de Fora in Minas Geraes; insurrectionists were emphatic in claiming a victory in a pitched battle in the Santa Catharina city of Joinville, a federal stronghold of 43,000 inhabitants, and conflicting reports averred that the rebels were endeavoring to assemble some 40,000 troops for a concerted attack either upon Sao Paulo or Rio de Janeiro, the final government strongholds.

Although information emanating from Brazil must remain clouded with doubt, it seemed fairly certain that the following twelve states had fallen definitely under rebel control: Rio Grande do Sul, Santa Catharina, Parana, Minas Geraes, Alagoas, Pernambuco, Paraibah, Rio Grande do Norte, Ceara, Maranhao, Para and Piauhy.

The states loyal to the federal government headed by President Washington Luis consist of Rio de Janeiro, Matto Grosso, Sao Paulo, Espirito Santo, Bahia, Goyaz and Sergipe.

The fast and untrammelled stretches of Amazonas, the twentieth state of the republic split by the mighty and alluring Amazon River, remained an idle pawn on the checker board of the rebellion. Its almost impenetrable jungles and extreme separation from the coastal points of warfare kept it in practically undisturbed peace, its roaming natives oblivious to the strife and politics of far-distant regions.

Details received here describing the encounter between federals and rebels at Joinville advised that both sides fared badly, suffering casualties and reverses. The rebels, according to intercepted communications, were repulsed from the outlying sections of Joinville after a determined assault against the federal defensive position. Three of their number were killed and thirteen wounded.

A part of the defensive forces, according to the information, surrendered and there were indications that the city would succumb entirely before the continued assaults before many hours. The prisoners consisted of 190 naval men, two of them officers.

Reporting revolutionary progress in his territory and under his command, Captain Caldas Braga radioed the following communiqué:

"In addition to the assault against Joinville and its subsequent results, we have captured also the cities of San Francisco and Puerto Mar, thus leaving the key city of Florianopolis alone in federal hands."

This strongly defended position has already become the object of heavy rebel fire. Commander Costa of the federal forces ordered a counter-attack against the opponents.

Official reports from Revolutionary headquarters in the south, originating in the city of Rivera, confirmed previous statements that the important railroad center of Lorena had been captured by the rebels, thus preventing any cooperation between the government forces of Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro.

REPORT INFANTILE PARALYSIS CASE

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—The $125,000,000 loan which was granted Germany by an international consortium, headed by the New York banking firm of Lee Higginson and Co., will be formally consummated today with signing of the final papers, it was understood here.

Publication will follow as soon as the Reichstag, which meets Monday, has ratified the sinking fund. Immediate action on the matter was expected.

The loan, seeking to counteract Germany's huge budget deficit, carries 6 per cent interest.

STORE ROBBED

TWISTED TO DEATH

All England Mourns When Air Victims Brought Home

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Amidst a majestic stillness, broken only by the rumble of wheels and the measured beat of a dirge, the most solemn funeral ever witnessed in London's historic streets passed slowly today between crowds massed from ancient Westminster Hall to Euston railroad station.

Scores of spectators, among them many women, collapsed in the terrific crush which was exerted by the huge throng in an effort to glimpse the procession. Scotland Yard and other public buildings were converted into temporary first-aid stations as ambulances made vain attempts to cope with the situation. All available policemen were utilized to maintain order.

Exactly a year from the day that the ill-starred R-101 was launched with gala ceremonies at Cardington, London doffed its hats in reverent silence to the fallen airship's crew as the long line of coffins was placed into the special coaches one by one. A common grave within the shadow of the great British dirigible base awaits them, with interment scheduled for late this afternoon.

Behind the cabinet followed all the premiers of the British empire. Hundreds of administration, army, navy and municipal officials followed after them in solid ranks.

The crowd was so dense at the terminal that only the officials in the line of march were able to penetrate into the station, while the thousands of others stood with bared heads as the train began its sad journey to Cardington.

MYSTERY OF MISSING DIAMOND STILL BAFFLES POLICE FORCE

The "Great Mogul" diamond is gone and the best police and detective minds have been unable to find a trace of it.

As a result of the mysterious theft, the wedding of Uncle Bim Gump to the Widow Henrietta Zander was called off. Andy Gump was thrown into jail as a suspect until Uncle Bim furnished $50,000 bond for his release and the Gump household was thrown into despair.

The mysterious nature of the robbery is what is baffling police. The diamond was locked in a small safe placed on a stand in front of the window in Bim Gump's room. The doors were locked and barricaded and the window, slightly open, was protected by a Tom Carr burglar alarm.

Bim Gump slept with a shotgun in his arms but awoke in the morning to find the safe and its beautiful jewel gone. The only clews were the facetious remark of Andy Gump that he might walk in his sleep and steal it and the footprints of a one-legged man on the ground outside of the window.

A carpenter who worked in the Gump home before the disappearance of the jewel, might be a suspect but he cannot be found for questioning, the address he gave proving to be false. The situation is fraught with thrilling and interesting angles and the progress of this amazing crime case is being followed daily by readers of The Gazette. Turn to the comic page.

NOT SPOOKS! JUST GAZETTE'S BIG SPEAKERS

PEOPLE near the Catholic Cemetery on the Upper Bellbrook Pike last Sunday may have thought they heard spooks.

Investigation, however, reveals that mysterious voices heard there came from our old friend Graham McNamee, well known radio announcer, who was broadcasting the Sunday world series game.

The broadcast was being picked up here by the Gazette's public address system and, although the amplifying power was only turned on one-third, the sound carried more than a mile to the cemetery.

Since the speaker units faced buildings on the opposite side of the street it is believed the sound rebounded to the Gazette Bldg. which is higher, and then echoed off over the tops of the other buildings and travelled swiftly on Sunday's clear air.

The public address system was used again Friday to amplify to the large crowd on the Court House lawn the voice of Vice President Charles Curtis during his address on the occasion of his visit here.

Saturday the equipment was at Wilberforce where it was being used to make announcements of the Wilberforce-North Carolina State game to the fans. At the football game the announcer used a portable microphone which he carried with him along the sidelines during the game.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE SON OF GOD—Now when the centurion and they that were with him, watching Jesus saw the earthquake, and those things that were done, they feared greatly, saying, Truly this was the Son of God.—Matthew 27:54.

MUTUAL INTEREST

A significant fact connected with the present business depression in this country is that it has witnessed fewer than 300 labor disputes, as compared with more than 20,000 disputes provoked by the last depression. There has been little or no industrial bitterness that can be traced directly to the sudden drop in production. With scattered exceptions, wages have been maintained. The leaders of labor have responded with commendable wisdom and public spirit. Only by this loyal co-operation in a common cause has the condition of the wage-earning classes been prevented from becoming far worse than it temporarily is.

This is what Mr. Hoover, speaking before the American Federation of Labor in Boston, called "the philosophy of mutual interest." The ancient idea that between labor and capital there is a natural and irrepressible conflict, with the consumer ground between these two contending forces, went out of fashion in this country many years ago. The fact that all three classes gain or lose together has come more and more fully to be realized, as the hollowness of the "victories" won by one class over another has been exposed. The problems of labor and capital are joint problems, which can be satisfactorily solved only by joint action. They are the more easily and satisfactorily solved when both sides approach them with that fact in their minds and good will and confidence in each other's integrity in their hearts.

The great problem at the moment is to discover a means of taking up the periodical slacks that occur in employment. There is nothing the worker fears more than the possibility of being laid off, when he is still able and anxious to work. There is nothing the conscientious employer hates more than to have to call his men before him to tell them that conditions force him to slow down on production. They both lose. The rapid increase of technological unemployment has complicated the situation in this highly mechanized country. Although normally men displaced by new machinery have found other employment, at times of abnormal depression they feel the effects of an inflated labor market. Speeding up building and replacement programs at such times has a temporarily beneficial effect; but this expedient can hardly be called a permanent solution of the problem. The fact, stated by Mr. Hoover, that he and competent agencies at his command are seeking a solution that will stabilize employment in an era of shifting methods and machinery, without resorting to doles or other paternalistic panaceas, as some countries have done, shows that out of the bitterness of depression may come the inspiration to better things.

The completion of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York, which already has cost $13,000,000, will require another $10,000,000. The trip to heaven can't be made on a shoestring—and there are still some people in the world who think the reward is worth the price.

Nowadays many candidates vary the old procedure a little. Instead of trying to carry water on both shoulders, they try to carry water on one and booze on the other.

A man has just been tried in Alabama for a murder he is alleged to have committed 47 years ago. We thought the wheels of justice turned that slowly only in Chicago.

When a man has made a billion dollars behind the American tariff wall he can safely go to Europe and tell the world that tariff protection is all boney.

THE WHITE HOUSE, to be sure, did the only thing it could do, in referring the Kelley charges, involving the interior Department, to the department of justice to be looked into. Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson, especially assigned to go to the bottom & the cause, has the reputation of a competent authority on oil land legal problems.

No one disputes that the administration desires Attorney General Mitchell to be thorough, that his orders are to that effect or that he has passed them along with equal sincerity and emphasis to Assistant Richardson, or that the latter means to act on them conscientiously.

Nevertheless, it obviously will be unfortunate for all concerned if he finds that the Kelley accusations are justified.

KELLEY, on the other hand, certainly is an individual who, unless laboring under some extraordinary hallucination, should know what he is talking about.

Twenty-five years' experience in the general land office and his key position as chief of its field division, with headquarters in Denver, assuredly must have provided him with ample opportunity to familiarize himself with the system under which it operates. His recent resignation held up by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur pending an inquiry into his story bears witness to the wholeheartedness of his objections to present methods in the service.

"When am I going to be given something to eat?" demanded her young Royal Highness, suddenly.

Land office operations are intricate and technical, however; it is not easy for an expert to explain them in terms understandable to the average layman.

Moral: So trade, that if necessary demands, your merchandise will support your weight on a slide scale.

TAMMANY'S ANSWER
That's the answer that Tammany is handing today to the forces of Sweetness and Light who are up on their hind legs in Gotham crying to high heaven that their office holders are betraying them.

"Your representative represents" and he in office is the reflex of those who put him there. Your officer is as natural to his constituents as your apple to its tree; and in his rotteness, or his sound sweetness, he tells the story of his origin. He wouldn't be there and he couldn't stay there, save for you. You want him, and there he is.

In New York it is seldom that the "representative citizen" does anything to assert himself in practical politics, save growl as he casts his ballot, and grumble as he pays his taxes.

The Lesser Breed of politics act otherwise. They join their own particular party, crowd to the front, shout, seek office, grab what they may and never permit a question of public morality to get between the legs of their desire,

"Not very," replied Her Highness, who was nothing if not truthful.

"I don't think it's pretty home, and I've not yet seen anything to interest me. Hello! What's up now? What are those Ants over yonder doing?"

THE FULL DINNER PAIL

STEWART PREDICTS LONG WAIT ON PUBLIC'S PART FOR FACTS IN LATEST U. S. OIL SCANDAL

WASHINGTON.—How much substance there is in Ralph S. Kelley's charge that big petroleum concerns are engaged in gobbling 40 billion dollars' worth of Colorado shale oil lands from the government is a question for which the public probably will have to wait some time for an answer.

Not until congress meets is even a good guess at an answer likely. What executive officials of the government have to say on the subject cannot be satisfying, as disposition of federal oil land is an executive function, and an investigation of one set of executives by another set of executives always leaves skeptical oil men still doubtful, no matter how clear a bill of health may be given to the investigated group by the investigators.

According to Kelley, these contradictions enable oil grabbers to get what they are after.

If what he says is true, it implies a governmental defect that Secretary Wilbur (with more faith than that in the government's perfection) cannot believe actually exists in it—in which event Kelley simply must be wrong. In fact, Wilbur is so sure of it that he pooh-poohs all his charges.

INDICATIONS ARE that it is one of those infinitely complicated disputes which few folk ever really will get the rights of.

But 40 billions is too much to be lightly disregarded.

Maybe Assistant Attorney General Richardson will succeed in explaining everything so clearly that the country will be willing to drop the subject, but the chances are better that congress finally will have to take a hand in it and con-

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

FIRST CRY OF THE NEW BORN
"Poor Nurse! I am so sorry you hurt your claw. Can I do anything to make it better?"

The young princess leaned forward, and patted Nurse.

"She is going to be a wonderful Queen Mother," whispered Busy, the ant, to Peter, the boy. "She has been in the world only so short a time and already she is thinking of others."

Busy was pleased at the Princess' thoughtfulness, but Nurse was embarrassed, and kept murmuring: "Oh, no, thank you, your Royal Highness. Oh, no, thank you!"

And she seemed relieved when the princess changed the subject.

"When am I going to be given something to eat?" demanded her young Royal Highness, suddenly.

"I am starving. I feel as though I could eat my old cocoon, but, if you please, Nurse, I'd rather have some fresh cow's milk."

"First cry of the new born," murmured Busy. "Give me something to eat!"

Forgetting her sprained claw, Nurse clapped her forelegs together.

"Fine!" cried she. "Now you are as hungry as a growing Queen."

"Ant should be. You shall have a drink of fresh milk as soon as the milkmaids arrive. They should be here before long if they are on time. But in the meantime, best not think about your empty tummies."

"Wouldn't you like to look around a little, Princess? Aren't you anxious to become acquainted with your new home?"

"Not very," replied Her Highness, who was nothing if not truthful.

"I don't think it's pretty home, and I've not yet seen anything to interest me. Hello! What's up now? What are those Ants over yonder doing?"

Uses for Oilcloth

Oilcloth continues to delight us with the new and ingenious ways in which it is being used. Because it is so good looking and so easy to clean, it has long since won an established place in both the kitchen and bathroom.

Now its popularity has extended into the interior of the wardrobe. Oilcloth in solid colors and striking new prints, in both dull and glossy finish, is used to line closets and to cover closet accessories, such as hat boxes, hat stands, dress boxes and shoe cabinets. It also makes attractive coverings for shelves and ruffles to decorate the edges of the shelves.

Recently this versatile fabric has begun to appear on floor pillows in playrooms and men's studies. When muddy boots and sticky fingers leave unwelcome imprints on their surface, the oilcloth can easily be removed with a damp soapy cloth.

Mashed Cucumbers

Clendening Gives Lists of Manuals

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Diabetes has taught the medical profession more about diet than any other single thing. It would not be an exaggeration to say that half of all we know about diet we have learned from a study of patients with diabetes.

This is because nature has created a queer condition in the diabetic's body so that it is like an experiment in a laboratory of physiology.

So much can be done for people with diabetes, so much human life can be saved by well directed treatment, and so many people have diabetes whether they know it or not, that it is proper and necessary to inform the public what is known of it. With that idea in mind, the present series is written.

First let me emphasize that a person with diabetes has a disease. That person's body is not like a normal person's. Nothing that I have ever said about the normal diet or the diet of healthy people applies to diabetics at all.

For the reason that diabetes is a disease and very complicated one, every one

3. The railroad on which one can travel the farthest in the United States is the Southern Pacific from Portland, Ore., to New Orleans, La.

JUNIOR TEAM MAKES DEBUT BEFORE HOME CROWD; SCORE 27-14

Youngsters Do Well In Second Half After Poor Start

BY BIRCH BELL

Xenia Central's Little Bucs went down to a stinging 27 to 14 defeat before a larger Troy outfit here Friday afternoon at Cox Field.

The Troy junior team completely outweighed the Little Bucs and employed speed with its weight to gain a well earned victory.

Troy possessed a colored backfield that gives promise of being one of the fastest backfields Troy has had for many a day. These boys played in only the first half but nevertheless accounted for all of the twenty-seven points registered by the Purple and White.

The first quarter began with Glenn of Xenia kicking off to Troy. The visitors returned the ball to nearly mid-field and then set out at once to carry the ball to the goal line, with Archie, colored half, carrying the ball on sweeping end runs. The Trojans scored on an end run by the fleet-footed Archie after three successive first downs had put them within scoring distance. Archie added the extra-point from placement.

Xenia chose to receive. Troy kicked to Xenia's end zone and while the players grouped around the ball Ross of Troy fell on the ball for a touchdown and six points rang up for Troy. A kick for extra point was not allowed as a Troy player was offside on the play.

Xenia again chose to receive and this time Adair took the ball from the air and gained fifteen yards through midfield. It was here when Xenia made its first offensive drive. Foley, flashy halfback, ripped off twenty yards around end for a first down. Another end run and a line play netted another first down. A pass from Glenn to Arment added another first down and placed the ball on the fifteen yard strip. Three line plays went to no advantage and the gun for the quarter sounded. As play was resumed a pass was attempted on fourth down but did not reach its destination. The youngsters did not lose the ball however as Troy was penalized on the play for off-sides. With fourth down and ten yards to go the speedy Foley skirted around right end for a Xenia touchdown. Glenn added the extra point on a line kick.

Trailing 13 to the Blue and White kicked off. Troy received on its twenty yard line and with Fullback Ross carrying the ball behind perfect interference went up the sidelines for another touchdown. Archie again kicked goal for another point.

Troy kicked and Xenia returned to its own thirty-five. On the play Foley was injured and was replaced by Hook who started off right by picking up eight yards through tackle. Acton went off tackle for a first down. A pass was incomplete and on the next play Xenia fumbled and Troy recovered. Two end runs netted first down for the Trojans. After a few successful line plays Archie went off tackle for a score. His placement kick was good and the score stood 27 to 7 in favor of Troy. Xenia received and Adair returned to the thirty as the half was called.

Xenia received and Adair returned to the thirty as the half was called.

The third quarter consisted mostly of exchanging punts with neither team making any great headway. Troy made numerous substitutions and quite a number of penalties were inflicted during the period.

The fourth quarter marked the return to the game of halfback Foley. Batson also replaced Arment at end. Foley made a large gain around left end but the play was not allowed as a Xenia player was called offside. No ground was gained on a couple of line plays and Xenia was forced to punt again. Troy being stopped in its tracks, was forced to return a punt within a short time. Foley completed a pass to Adair for a small gain. Troy received a fifteen yard penalty giving the "Little Bucs" a first down. Foley passed to Adair for another first down. With fifteen yards to go Foley out-footed the opponents around right end for the final touchdown of the afternoon. Batson dropped the extra point to swell Xenia's total to fourteen points.

Dalton kicked off for Xenia and Troy returned to the thirty yard stripe, where it was held for down and forced to punt as the game ended.

Although being completely out-classed the "Little Bucs" showed that there is plenty of room for improvement in their play. Foley was the outstanding offensive player for Xenia while Adair also showed some good judgment in calling plays. The heat probably slowed the game up somewhat.

OFFICES LOOTED BY THIEVES THURSDAY

Small change amounting to $8 or $9 was obtained by burglars who broke into the office of The American Loan and Realty Co. on the third floor of the Steele Bldg., sometime Thursday night, according to J. R. Whitacre, local manager. The intruder sprung the night lock to force the door and then pried open the cash drawers.

The outer and inner office of Attorney C. L. Darlington on the second floor of the building was also entered the same evening, the thief using a skeleton key to open the door, but nothing of value, except perhaps a few stamps, was missing.

OFFICES TO CLOSE

Public offices in the Court House will be closed all day Monday in observance of Columbus Day as a legal holiday, according to an announcement made by County Commissioners.

CEDARVILLE AND URBANA PLAY 6 TO 6 TIE SATURDAY MORNING

It may have been the heat and possibly was, but in any event Cedarville College and Urbana Junior College football teams struggled for sixty minutes without getting anywhere in particular Saturday morning on Cedarville's gridiron.

The battle terminated with no advantage either way, the final score being a 6 to 6 tie with the Borstmen narrowly averting their third straight defeat at the hands of the first football team to represent Urbana since the school discontinued the sport a few years ago. It was Urbana's opener.

The opening quarter passed scoreless but in the second period a Cedarville pass was intercepted on the Cedarville thirty-five yard line and returned to within less than a foot of the goal, where the Urbana player was spilled from behind by Gordon, guard. Urbana lost four yards on the next two plays but on the third attempt

SCOUTS WILL VISIT GRAVE OF PIONEER AND BATTLE GROUND

A treat has been arranged for a group of about ten local Boy Scouts who were on special duty in Springfield Friday and were deprived of the opportunity of witnessing the sham battle staged on the site of the Battle of Piqua.

Chaperoned by E. L. Blackburn, Scoutmaster of Troop 62 of the O. S. and S. O. Home, and Homer T. Gratz, field executive of Tecumseh Council, these Scouts will be taken Sunday to the burial ground of Simon Kenton, pioneer Indian fighter, at Urbana, after which they will visit the sham battle grounds near Springfield and cook their evening meal in the gully which was inhabited by Indians 150 years ago.

Graz announced he has received widespread favorable comment on the showing made by Greene County Scouts in the sesquicentennial parade at Springfield Thursday, in which more than 100 local Scouts took part. Greene County had a larger representation of Scouts than any other county in Tecumseh Council, even including Clark.

ARRAIGNMENTS ARE DELAYED PENDING NAMING OF COUNSEL

Greenwood P. Russell, colored, Wilberforce, indicted by the October grand jury for issuing a check without funds in the bank and removing mortgaged property outside the county, and William A. Miller, Osborn, indicted with his wife Dorothy for removing mortgaged property with intent to defraud, appeared in Common Pleas Court for arraignment Saturday morning, but were without counsel and neither was named to enter a plea, pending appointment of counsel for them by Judge R. L. Gowdy.

Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall announced that Edgar A. Manuel, 30, Dayton, indicted for felonious assault will be arraigned Tuesday morning and that arraignment of Herman Reisner and Harold Wallace, former Montgomery County constables, on a joint indictment, charging them with impersonating officers, will take place next Wednesday.

Eugene G. Smith, 25, Springfield indicated for highway robbery in connection with a filling station hold up at Fairfield last August 17 has been confined in the Dayton State Hospital for observation under a thirty-day commitment, but has been pronounced mentally sound and will also be arraigned on the indictment next week, the prosecutor said.

Wally Christensen, hard-hitting Milwaukee American association out-fielder, has won the title of "the Nick Altrock of the minors" this season by his clownish antics.

Here he is trying to play third base upside down.

BOWLING

Krippendorf Shoes supplanted the Central Acceptance Corp. as the leader of the City Bowling League by winning three games in a row from this team in a match Friday night. In the other match of the league double-header the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. won two out of three games from the American Legion No. 2 team. JUNIOR TEAM MAKES DEBUT BEFORE HOME CROWD; SCORE 27-14

Youngsters Do Well In Second Half After Poor Start

BY BIRCH BELL

A preview of football prospects in the Miami Valley League indicates that on the whole the six teams will be weaker than last season.

Piqua Central, heir apparent to the title, may not be quite so brilliant this year as last but the Indians are still an outstanding favorite.

Greenville High is admitted the team which will bear watching. If the Big Green eleven is as good as everybody, including Red Randall, says, it should be good enough to wrest the title from Piqua hands down.

Miamisburg is the third team with more than an even chance to get somewhere in the league this fall.

Xenia Central, Sidney and Troy are hard to guess on for so much will depend upon the development of new material. Xenia is certain to improve markedly and make a better showing than last season when the Bucs finished in the league dungeon. Sidney and Troy are exceptionally weak in contrast to former years, especially the Trojan eleven, which was undefeated in league games last fall until Thanksgiving Day when Piqua won on a snow-covered gridiron, two touchdowns to one.

A peculiar feature of the 1930 grid schedule in the Miami Valley League is there is not a single day on which all six of the schools play league opponents. Two league games are the most carded for any single day this fall.

Gone are the football stars of yesterday in the league and a new galaxy must be discovered this fall. Virtually all the youths who held the spotlight during the 1929 league season were seniors and have passed on with new players trying to fill their shoes.

Players who by their exploits on the gridiron last fall earned berths on the 1929 mythical all-star league grid team selected by the coaches were: ends—Lind, of Piqua, and Linthicum, of Sidney; tackles—J. Purdy, of Piqua and R. Scott, of Troy; guards—Bassford of Miamisburg and Douglas, of Sidney; center—Cress, of Troy; Quarterback—Neth, of Piqua; halfbacks—Smittie, of Xenia, and Hoover, of Troy; fullback—Cron, of Piqua, mythical captain. How many of these are back? Darn few. Douglas is the only one.

The gray days of November will proclaim an entirely different set of heroes of the gridiron.

How many old-timers of baseball in Xenia remember back to the two occasions when Jess Haines, now and still a star pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals despite his 38 years, appeared here and twirled against the old Xenia Nationals?

"Dad" Kearney is one who has a clear recollection of these two times for "Dad" not only pitched against Jess but beat him both times.

Haines' home is in Phillipsburg, O. not so far from here, and he hurried for a Trotwood semi-pro team when he pitched here.

In those days Jess was not so well known but he scaled the heights and in the current world's series he won the only game he pitched in easy fashion.

The frontiers of sport are being drawn in to accommodate those who want quicker action at less cost, and with less arduous exercise. Ball games are being played with larger, softer baseballs and in more restricted areas. Miniature golf has swept the country. So far nobody has devised a game of miniature football, but it may soon arrive.

In fact, something on the order has appeared at Delaware and Ohio Wesleyan football fans can now play the Battling Bishops' games over again in real style.

When they convened on the Saturday night following Wesleyan's opening game with Marshall they found the Hotel Allen lobby, headquarters for the Bishop downtown coaches, equipped with a gridiron for their use.

Jack and Bob Watson, proprietors of the hotel, and Bishop boosters, had marked off a playing field on the floor of the lobby with ten-yard lines, end zones and all carefully indicated. Equipped with a referee's whistle, a headman's horn, and a timer's gun, the Watson brothers officiated the post-mortem game and ruled many of the downtown coaches off-side.

Dalton kicked off for Xenia and Troy returned to the thirty yard stripe, where it was held for down and forced to punt as the game ended.

Although being completely out-classed the "Little Bucs" showed that there is plenty of room for improvement in their play. Foley was the outstanding offensive player for Xenia while Adair also showed some good judgment in calling plays. The heat probably slowed the game up somewhat.

A preview of football prospects in the Miami Valley League indicates that on the whole the six teams will be weaker than last season.

Piqua Central, heir apparent to the title, may not be quite so brilliant this year as last but the Indians are still an outstanding favorite.

Greenville High is admitted the team which will bear watching. If the Big Green eleven is as good as everybody, including Red Randall, says, it should be good enough to wrest the title from Piqua hands down.

Miamisburg is the third team with more than an even chance to get somewhere in the league this fall.

Xenia Central, Sidney and Troy are hard to guess on for so much will depend upon the development of new material. Xenia is certain to improve markedly and make a better showing than last season when the Bucs finished in the league dungeon. Sidney and Troy are exceptionally weak in contrast to former years, especially the Trojan eleven, which was undefeated in league games last fall until Thanksgiving Day when Piqua won on a snow-covered gridiron, two touchdowns to one.

A peculiar feature of the 1930 grid schedule in the Miami Valley League is there is not a single day on which all six of the schools play league opponents. Two league games are the most carded for any single day this fall.

Gone are the football stars of yesterday in the league and a new galaxy must be discovered this fall. Virtually all the youths who held the spotlight during the 1929 league season were seniors and have passed on with new players trying to fill their shoes.

Players who by their exploits on the gridiron last fall earned berths on the 1929 mythical all-star league grid team selected by the coaches were: ends—Lind, of Piqua, and Linthicum, of Sidney; tackles—J. Purdy, of Piqua and R. Scott, of Troy; guards—Bassford of Miamisburg and Douglas, of Sidney; center—Cress, of Troy; Quarterback—Neth, of Piqua; halfbacks—Smittie, of Xenia, and Hoover, of Troy; fullback—Cron, of Piqua, mythical captain. How many of these are back? Darn few. Douglas is the only one.

The gray days of November will proclaim an entirely different set of heroes of the gridiron.

How many old-timers of baseball in Xenia remember back to the two occasions when Jess Haines, now and still a star pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals despite his 38 years, appeared here and twirled against the old Xenia Nationals?

"Dad" Kearney is one who has a clear recollection of these two times for "Dad" not only pitched against Jess but beat him both times.

Haines' home is in Phillipsburg, O. not so far from here, and he hurried for a Trotwood semi-pro team when he pitched here.

In those days Jess was not so well known but he scaled the heights and in the current world's series he won the only game he pitched in easy fashion.

The frontiers of sport are being drawn in to accommodate those who want quicker action at less cost, and with less arduous exercise. Ball games are being played with larger, softer baseballs and in more restricted areas. Miniature golf has swept the country. So far nobody has devised a game of miniature football, but it may soon arrive.

In fact, something on the order has appeared at Delaware and Ohio Wesleyan football fans can now play the Battling Bishops' games over again in real style.

When they convened on the Saturday night following Wesleyan's opening game with Marshall they found the Hotel Allen lobby, headquarters for the Bishop downtown coaches, equipped with a gridiron for their use.

Jack and Bob Watson, proprietors of the hotel, and Bishop boosters, had marked off a playing field on the floor of the lobby with ten-yard lines, end zones and all carefully indicated. Equipped with a referee's whistle, a headman's horn, and a timer's gun, the Watson brothers officiated the post-mortem game and ruled many of the downtown coaches off-side.

Dalton kicked off for Xenia and Troy returned to the thirty yard stripe, where it was held for down and forced to punt as the game ended.

Although being completely out-classed the "Little Bucs" showed that there is plenty of room for improvement in their play. Foley was the outstanding offensive player for Xenia while Adair also showed some good judgment in calling plays. The heat probably slowed the game up somewhat.

The lineups:

CEDARVILLE AND URBANA PLAY 6 TO 6 TIE SATURDAY MORNING

It may have been the heat and possibly was, but in any event Cedarville and Urbana Junior College football teams struggled for sixty minutes without getting anywhere in particular Saturday morning on Cedarville's gridiron.

The battle terminated with no advantage either way, the final score being a 6 to 6 tie with the scoreless first half.

Gregg, quarterback, skirted left end for a touchdown. A place kick for extra point was wide of the cross bar.

The Yellow-Jackets evened matters in the fourth period when Stormont, flashy center, broke through to block an Urbana punt on the thirty-five yard stripe, the ball rolling out of bounds on Urbana's seven-yard mark. On the next play Fullback Irons plunged through the line for a touchdown. All that was necessary to win the game then was for Cedarville to make good the try for point, but Irons' attempt from placement was blocked, leaving the teams deadlocked.

The battle terminated with no advantage either way, the final score being a 6 to 6 tie with

The Theater

Have the talkies ruined the New York stage? Well, if you'll gather 'round the microphone folks, we'll tell you that from our pinnacle in the provinces and with our astigmatism working overtime, it still looks as if "Hooley Hollow" is holding its own in the matter of "footlights and poses."

We have told you about Ivor, auley. The comedy in both is only Norvello in his "Symphony in Two" fair but Lillian Bond gives much promise in "Luana" and will be heard from some day.

 George M. Cohan's unhappy production "The Rhapsody," which has already wrapped itself up and hurried into the storeroom.

The opus was by Louis K. Ansopher, who wrote "The Unchasteened Woman" and it featured Louis Calhern, who did a piano-playing scene in which the music was evidently fudged in from the wings, and the classically beautiful Julia Hoyt.

Shed a tear friends, for Mr. Cohan's production.

This brings us up to Zoe Akins' latest, "The Greeks Had a Word For It," which is not so bad. It is Zoe's first since "The Furies," which was a melodrama Julia Hoyt that was practically a grand opera, only slightly more so. Again the leading man is a pianist and this time our old friend Ernest Glenning, who formerly played in stock in Dayton, does a convincing job. For her plot the authoress has helped herself to a generous and fumbling slice from "The Gold Diggers" with a little "Camille" thrown in for garnish. William Harris mounted the play in good taste and Muriel Kirkland, after her last season's triumph in "Strictly Dishonorable," proves she can act other roles than innocent Southern misses.

"Frankie and Johnnie," the virgin offering of Nancy Carroll's husband, John Kirkland, is, as the title suggests, far from virgin in the subject matter. The idea is based on that song of many verses which is an integral part of American folk lore, but the melodrama is rather crude in spite of Anne Forrest's skill. Ruth Altman

The torrid dialogue was cleaned up after first shocking reports.

And thus we come to "Luana" and "Nina Rose," which are catalogued together because of their similarity. Each is sumptuous, expensive, lengthy, declamatory, color-bright musical comedy but between the two lies the gulf that separates a dull evening from a delightful one.

or some unexplained reason "Luana" just doesn't click while "Nina Rose" goes over in a big way. Both productions have the advantage of some superb voices. Ethelind Terry, Guy Robertson and Leonard Ceeley vocalize with brilliance in "Nina Rose" and the glittering Armidia

Lillian Bond is in the cast. "Luana" is just as splendidly sung by Ruth Altman, Robert Chisholm and Joseph Mac-

Time Savers

THE great American instinct is to save time—a lot of time—and then some more time. In the big affairs and the little things of life, time is the most valuable thing at our command.

Limited trains, automatic telephones, special editions of newspapers, sixty-miles-an-hour automobiles, airplanes still faster—we have these things in answer to our demand for speed. And an equally important time saver in the lives of people today is advertising. Just as surely as any other modern service, the advertisements bridge hours and days for people who have wants to be filled.

Readers of advertisements are the same people who demand the utmost efficiency in communication, in business, in their daily life. They know that a few minutes' reading of the advertisements will tell them more about products, values and the intelligent spending of their money than they could discover in days by any other method.

And like the other great time savers, advertisements save money and energy, as well. The reading of them is a genuine human economy.

Advertising offers you products that multiply the ease and pleasure of your days . . . read them regularly

Time Savers

THE great American instinct is to save time—a lot of time—and then some more time. In the big affairs and the little things of life, time is the most valuable thing at our command.

Limited trains, automatic telephones, special editions of newspapers, sixty-miles-an-hour automobiles, airplanes still faster—we have these things in answer to our demand for speed. And an equally important time saver in the lives of people today is advertising. Just as surely as any other modern service, the advertisements bridge hours and days for people who have wants to be filled.

Readers of advertisements are the same people who demand the utmost efficiency in communication, in business, in their daily life. They know that a few minutes' reading of the advertisements will tell them more about products, values and the intelligent spending of their money than they could discover in days by any other method.

And like the other great time savers, advertisements save money and energy, as well. The reading of them is a genuine human economy.
